Combining diverse resources to function as one. At AOS, we bring together an elite group of highly skilled individuals from a variety of technical backgrounds and disciplines. A specialized and geographically disparate workforce, we stand together to serve a common purpose. We share a common set of values and dedication to duty. From troubleshooting problems and providing emergency assistance to strategic planning, system design and performance analysis, we blend our talents into a singular force to keep the systems under our charge operating at their peak. As we excel as individuals, together we achieve results that are nothing short of extraordinary.

AOS maintains over 30 million lines of computer code and over 4,000 system configurations.
